Artist Bio I love to draw. I do it as a diversion, a way to keep myself occupied, as a release from all the stress that comes with performing. It's also a great way for me to explore a character and show how they could actually become. When I first started drawing I just tried to draw what I saw or just the media with which I was familiar. I'm very proud of the work I've done in that short span of time. It's progressed from a simple media to drawing to cover, and now to this. Even with limited skill I've managed to draw something other people can recognize as my art. If someone were to ask me what I wanted to do, I'd answer I'd like to draw every day. Sometimes it's hard to look back at old pages, because I can't stop seeing the improvements, the growth as a human being.
