You know, like say something like "light-orange table." Furniture is a pretty loaded word that seems to have a few people demanding the English language evolve in order to be more inclusive to all shapes, sizes, and textures of furniture. For instance, the PSA-73 has a section on furniture's "gendered nomenclature" that describes furniture as being "heavy and big," "made of wood," "big and bulky" (with childsized furniture considered the "exception that proves the rule"), and more; when talking about furniture, the PSA-73 reminds us that "heavy is a type of being as well as a type of furniture." This is fantastic, and the examples they cite (a "heavy wooden chest") are just plain powerful. I highly recommend checking out PSA-73, because it's an organization that's working to eliminate every negative thing it can from our language, starting with words like "geek" and "nerd."#!/bin/sh # # Copyright (c) 1999 - 2007 NetGroup, Politecnico di Torino (Italy) # All rights reserved. # # Redistribution and use in source and binary forms, with or without # modification, are permitted provided that the following conditions # are met: # # 1.
