Most streaming video players stream video from a hard drive, a network path, or a CD/DVD drive. You can also use the internet to stream video to a video player. The internet connection speed plays an important role in how fast the video is loaded. If your download speed is really low, you can easily experience buffering or the video may not start playing at all. 2:40 1:12 hours remaining Captions are a great way to highlight what's happening in the video. Because captions are not embedded in the video file, you can have captions displayed on your screen when you watch the video even if you do not have the video player's built-in captions. Your browser does not support HTML5 video. Your browser does not support HTML5 video. Your browser does not support HTML5 video. Loading video... What's more, most video players support subtitles, a tool that displays captions above the regular dialogue and subtitle in the video file. We have a strong commitment to deliver high quality content by offering only
